Instant Imprints Continues Momentum in Georgia with Carrollton Opening

Rapidly Expanding Franchise Brand to Increase Local Footprint, Opens Store in Carrollton

CARROLLTON, Ga. – Instant Imprints, North America’s innovative “one-stop image shop” franchise network of promotional products, logo wear and sign retail centers, will open a center in Carrollton. Planned to open July 28, the new unit continues Instant Imprints’ aggressive growth plans in Southern California, where multiple centers are operating. There are currently more than 40 Instant Imprints centers throughout all of North America.

Cindy Hutcheson will open the brand’s first Carrollton location at 775 South Park St. The site will be a family affair managed by daughter, Jada Clower, and son-in-law, J Clower. Danny Hutcheson, Cindy’s husband and owner of Dental Craft Crown & Bridge Lab in Carrollton, is also supporting this endeavor.

“We have every confidence that the Hutcheson team will run a successful and prominent center,” said Ralph Askar, who heads franchisor operations for San Diego-based Instant Imprints as the president and CEO of the company. “In addition to being savvy business people, they are passionate about teaching others in the community how to best market their businesses.”

The Instant Imprints franchise allows the family to enjoy the freedom to be “hands-on” with their business during the week, while spending time with family, supporting the community and working with local charitable organizations on weekends.

“In reviewing franchise options,” said Cindy, who has many years of experience working in finance, “Instant Imprints is a unique and sensible franchise business model that saves local organizations time and resources by accessing all their promotional needs in one place. It’s also a lifestyle business. You can operate the business and still have time for yourself and family.”

Instant Imprints’ growth in Georgia is part of the company’s aggressive North American development plan, which calls for more than 500 new centers throughout Canada and the United States.

Complete with comprehensive training, site selection support, marketing programs and the purchasing power of the Instant Imprints' network, the business model has been cultivated to cater to high quality candidates that understand the value of a proven system.
